Contents

These records cover all aspects of the financial administration of the college. Unfortunately, no financial accounting records survive (or were not recorded) from the college's earlier history. There are a large number of volumes of ledgers, journals and cash books which date from the late nineteenth/early twentieth centuries to the 1980s and form a record of the college's daily, monthly and yearly financial transactions. These are supplemented by bank account books and almost a full run of account statements from the late 1870s to the early 1990s. For much of the twentieth century, the college also invested in a wide range of initiatives which included stocks and shares in various companies as well as loans to other institutions, notably convents. These activities were recorded in investment ledgers, registers, reports and correspondence with various financial management companies, particularly Witham & Co. A large section of the financial records concern donations bequeathed to the college by various individuals as part of their estate (property bequests have been catalogued in the Estate Records) and legacies (some of which were disputed) and other miscellaneous executors' papers. The financial records also contain papers on a number of funds set up by the college as a result of these bequests which were usually stipulated in the terms of the will, including the Bishop Wilkinson Trust Fund (which is still administered by the college today), the Ecclesiastical Education Fund, the Elizabeth Langstaff Fund, and others, many of which were designed to offer some form of financial support for students at the college. Finally, there are also financial records relating to specific groups involved in the college, including a long run of student ledgers from the 1850s until the 1980s, and the wages of groups of staff members, including maintenance staff, indoor workers, domestic staff, and part-time workers.

Administrative History

Since the formation of the college in 1808, the procurator was singularly responsible for the management of the college finances. This originated from the system established at the English College in Douai, although poor management of the finances at that institution was said to be the main reason for its downfall and, as a consequence, the procurator at Ushaw College was subjected to greater scrutiny by the presidents than his Douai predecessors. The autonomy of the procurator, and Ushaw College generally, to manage the college funds was also seriously curtailed by the diocesan bishops following the controversy surrounding the Sherburne-Heatley case, in which it was alleged that college funds had been misappropriated.

Accession details

Originally retained separately as part of the procurators' archive, the financial records were transferred to the main college archive in November 2011.

Previous custodial history

The majority of records pertaining to the financial administration of the college were originally created as part of the day-to-day business of the college itself. A further tranche of the financial records consist of the executors' papers of individuals who either donated their estate to the college or were papers acquired by the college at a later point, some of which predate the foundation of the college.

Arrangement

It has not been possible to recreate the original arrangement of the filing system adopted by the respective procurators so the arrangement in this collection is, for the most part, artificial and based primarily on function.

1. College Ledgers
2. College Cash Books
3. College Journals
4. Bank Account Records
5. Statements of Accounts
6. Investments and Loans
7. Funds and Legacies
8. Student Charges, Grants, and Bursaries
9. Procurators' Papers

Conditions of access

There is restricted access to administrative records less than 30 years old, with some further restrictions, generally as noted, on records less than 80 years old where the Data Protection Act applies.

Copyright and copying

Permission to make any published use of material from the collection must be sought in advance from pg.library@durham.ac.uk and, where appropriate, from the copyright owner. The Library will assist where possible with identifying copyright owners, but responsibility for ensuring copyright clearance rests with the user of the material

Appraisal

The financial records have been appraised on the basis of their historical value and the uniqueness of the material. Information which is duplicated in other records, and clean duplicates, have generally been removed.

Accruals

A limited number of further accruals are anticipated for those financial accounting records currently serving business needs, although the closure of the college in 2010 is likely to result in diminishing returns

Form of citation

The form of citation should use the code GB-0298-UC/AB, or the collection name Ushaw College Administration: Financial Papers, followed by the reference number

To order items in the searchroom, use the collection reference code(s), derived by removing the repository code (GB-0298-), followed by the reference number. Citing the section of the finding aid is useful.
